Press Invitation

Hong Kong Students' Performance in Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) 2025

Press Conference

The Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA), coordinated by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), is an international assessment that measures 15-year-old students' science, reading, and mathematics literacy. It assesses how well students can apply their knowledge and skills to real-life challenges, make sound judgements, and fully participate in the knowledge society. Apart from assessing students' literacy in these three domains, PISA 2025 also assesses their competence to learn in the digital world.

In PISA 2025, 91 countries and economies participated in the assessment, and more than 760,000 students were tested worldwide. The Hong Kong component of PISA is conducted by the Faculty of Education of The University of Hong Kong (HKU), with 6,445 students from 230 secondary schools participating.
