Press Invitation

“New Cultural Dialog and Reading” Symposium

The Faculty of Education of the University of Hong Kong (HKU) will hold a symposium entitled “New Cultural Dialog and Reading” on June 22 (Saturday) to promote reading, which is an important role of schools and libraries.

The one-day symposium includes a panel discussion to examine the important roles that school libraries play in supporting the learning of local children from grassroot families. Ms Marta Pozo (Director & Library Architect, MVRDV Asia) will share her experience in library space design. In the afternoon session, scholars and practitioners will share their successful reading, learning and authoring experiences related to martial arts and local culture. The Faculty hopes to promote reading an enjoyable experience and to encourage audience to take a step further from reading to writing.

The symposium is funded by the University of Hong Kong Knowledge Exchange Fund.

[For the details of the Symposium, please refer to the attached Programme Rundown (in Chinese only)]
