School-University Partnerships Symposium 2018
Teacher Learning and Teaching in the Age of STREAM –
PARTNERSHIP FOR ALL

促進院校夥伴研討會：
百年樹人 – 教學協作新方向
The title of our symposium this year is “Teacher Learning and Teaching in the Age of STREAM - PARTNERSHIP FOR ALL.” STREAM is an acronym derived from STEM which represents the disciplines of Science, Technology, Reading & Writing, Engineering, Arts and Mathematics. This clearly signals that the focus of our symposium is not simply on the content of the sciences and technology, but on integrated teaching and curriculum, student-centeredness in instruction and curriculum design, and the flexible, interdisciplinary and creative mindsets that STEM and STREAM can foster, especially among teachers. Through the symposium—one of the important ways in which we connect with our partnership schools and the wider education community—we intend to bring new insights and inspire learning and teaching among teachers.

School-University Partnerships are an indispensable component of our Faculty’s engagement with the local community. I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt thanks to mentor-teachers and practicum schools for their strong support, as well as to participating schools for their openness to our projects and research. The work of our student-teachers in their practicum marks the first milestone in their career. Training and support provided by practicum schools pave the way for the successful development of our student-teachers into professional teachers; similarly, schools that support our projects and research help our faculty members to develop new theories that can enrich practice and in turn contribute back to schools and the field of education.

Thank you again for being with us today. Let us join hands and hearts as we re-commit to strengthening our partnerships so that the schools and their pupils, student-teachers and the University will all benefit from this collaboration and exchange of knowledge. Our partnerships with schools have been crucial to the success of our teacher education endeavours during our first 100 years. We look forward to imagining and creating many new levels of partnership with colleagues in the education community as we move into the next century of teacher education at HKU.

Prof A. Lin Goodwin
Dean
Faculty of Education
The University of Hong Kong

Dr Carrie Willis
Chairperson
Committee on Professional Development of Teachers and Principals

The title of this year's symposium is “Teacher Learning and Teaching in the Age of STREAM - PARTNERSHIP FOR ALL.” The symposium is an important event in our University and school collaboration. This year is also the University’s centennial celebration of teacher education, marking a milestone in the University’s community commitment in teacher education.

“School-University Partnerships” is an essential component of our Faculty’s engagement with the local community. Collaboration with the practicum schools paves the way for the successful development of our student-teachers into professional teachers, as well as supports our projects and research in developing better theories and practices and in education. I would like to express my sincere gratitude for the great support of mentor-teachers and practicum schools as well as participating schools for joining our projects and research. I am also thankful for the hard work of the Faculty School-University Partnerships Office which has earned the trust and collaboration of many schools and benefits the student-teachers in their early experience of their teaching profession. Looking ahead, together with the School-University Partnerships Office, Dr Thomas Chiu (Deputy Director, School-University Partnerships) and myself (Associate Dean, Local Engagement), we will continue to develop so that the schools, student-teachers and the University will all benefit from the partnerships and exchange of knowledge.

Dr Yau Ah Chee Mak
Associate Dean (Local Engagement)
Faculty of Education
The University of Hong Kong

It is my great pleasure to welcome friends and colleagues from our Professional Partnership Schools and from the wider educational community to this year’s School-University Partnerships Symposium. As part of the Centenary Celebration of Teacher Education at The University of Hong Kong, our symposium this year aims to celebrate and share the success of different levels of partnership with local schools around teacher education, research, and professional support. This important event also provides an invaluable opportunity for us to envision new partnerships for the future together with our stakeholders in the community.

As Associate Dean for Learning and Teaching I am delighted to welcome you all here today to celebrate our successes in partnership with local schools and teachers and to open a new chapter in professional partnership and collaboration which we hope will bring enormous reciprocal benefits. We have so much in common and it’s vital that we work together as closely as possible in order to provide the best environment possible for the nurturing of our school students as well as our teachers of tomorrow. Neither schools nor universities can go it alone in achieving this aim and I look forward to working with you all as we move forward from today.

Dr Gary Harfitt
Associate Dean (Learning and Teaching)
Faculty of Education
The University of Hong Kong
Welcome to our School-University Partnerships Symposium 2018. This annual event has been developed as an important platform to stimulate professional dialogues and experience exchange among our colleagues from the Faculty as well as key stakeholders in the education community at large. The theme of the symposium this year is “Teacher Learning and Teaching in the Age of STREAM – PARTNERSHIP FOR ALL.” With the foundation laid in the previous years of the School-University Partnerships, we hope to seek your continuous support and collaboration for our journey of nurturing the next generation of teachers and building an even stronger partnership in the years to come.

Mr Lo Man Fong Alain
School-University Partnerships Director
Faculty of Education
The University of Hong Kong

Schools and The University of Hong Kong are devoted to the pursuit of learning and intellectual development, and we play a major role in socializing and preparing our Hong Kong youth for future roles in society. I am so pleased to see our partnerships as a two-way process driven by a social responsibility, involving interaction and listening, with the goal of generating mutual development and improvement. I would like to see more schools coming to our university to share their good practices, and to see more student teachers and faculty colleagues going out to schools to exchange knowledge next year. See you in 2018-19.

Dr Thomas Chiu
School-University Partnerships Deputy Director
Faculty of Education
The University of Hong Kong

“Education is not the filling of a bucket, but the lighting of a fire.” Education today is not just about the accumulation of knowledge but lighting a fire which is “a burning desire to never stop learning”. Our world is changing and hence, education and teachers are of crucial importance in preparing young people to embrace challenges in the future. Therefore, teachers nowadays must not only be bound by the norms and traditions of the past; instead, they should be open to new ideas preparing their students for what they are likely to face in the years and decades to come. The relationship between teachers and students is like what rain is to the fields. Good teachers are the bedrock of any education system. They are one of the biggest factors to determine students’ outcomes and also the principle agents of transformation in our education system. Great teachers and passionate principals are absolutely heroes to me because they change the trajectory of students’ lives for the better. They stir their students’ curiosity and illuminate their power of learning. Good teachers are the bedrock of any education system. They are one of the biggest factors to determine students’ outcomes and also the principle agents of transformation in our education system. Great teachers and passionate principals are absolutely heroes to me because they change the trajectory of students’ lives for the better. They stir their students’ curiosity and illuminate their power of learning.

To enhance the continuous professional development of schools and teachers as well as to ensure the success of initial teacher training, the Faculty of Education of HKU provides a platform for teachers, principals and educators to share their invaluable experiences and work collegially with people from different educational backgrounds. This indeed actualizes the spirit of School-University Partnerships.

Growth takes time and the seeds we are planting in young hearts and minds will grow and bring forth fruit.

Speaker:
Professor John Williams, Director, Graduate Research in the School of Education, Curtin University, Perth, Western Australia

Title:
STEM Pedagogy - The Application of Good Practice

Abstract
The STEM space is very complex – the term has different meanings in different contexts, the STEM subjects do not have equivalence, projects may be after school or in the curriculum, assessment is problematic, the goals of STEM are multiple, and so on. This complexity makes it difficult to generalize about the nature of STEM and of STEM teaching.

However, there is a body of research about good teaching practice, which results in effective learning, and can be applied to the range of STEM activities. This presentation will select some principles of teaching and learning, derived from research, and elaborate on the implications of their application to STEM teaching.

About the Speaker
Professor John Williams is a Professor of Education and the Director of Graduate Research in the School of Education at Curtin University in Perth, Western Australia, where he teaches and supervises research students in STEM and technology education. Apart from Australia, he has worked and studied in a number of African and Indian Ocean countries and in New Zealand and the United States. His current research interests include STEM, mentoring beginning teachers, PCK and electronic assessment of performance. He regularly presents at international and national conferences, consults on Technology Education in a number of countries, and is a longstanding member of eight professional associations. He is the editor of the Australasian Journal of Technology Education, advisory editor of the International Journal of Technology and Design Education, series editor of the Springer Contemporary Issues in Technology Education and is on the editorial board of five other professional journals. He has authored or contributed to over 240 publications, and is elected to the International Technology and Engineering Education Association’s Academy of Fellows for prominence in the profession.
Speaker: Mrs Chua-Lim Yen Ching, Executive Director, Academy of Singapore Teachers and Deputy Director-General of Education (Professional Development), Ministry of Education, Singapore

Title: Preparing our students for the future - The Singapore Journey

Abstract
With the rapid changes around us, how do we prepare our students to be strong in their character and be future-ready? Teachers need to be effective in designing learning experiences which can develop 21st century competencies in their students. Innovative pedagogies require teachers to be constantly adapting their teaching practices to prepare their students to be creative, adaptable, manage and analyse information, and work with knowledge. Innovative pedagogies must also provide authentic learning experiences for students.

We want to promote a culture for teachers to experiment, try out their ideas and opportunities to refine their knowledge and skills? To create these conditions, the Singapore education system has put in place two key goals:
• Building a Culture that Promotes Joy of Learning and Entrepreneurial Dare
• Building a Culture of Teacher Ownership and Teacher Leadership

Mrs Chua will be sharing on how to support our teachers to shift from being transmitters of knowledge to facilitators of learning and how to continue to help them hone their craft.

About the Speaker
Mrs Chua-Lim Yen Ching is the Executive Director, Academy of Singapore Teachers and Deputy Director-General of Education (Professional Development), Ministry of Education, Singapore. Mrs Chua has 35 years of experience as a teacher, school principal of 3 schools and policy maker. From 1998 to 2002, she reviewed and developed primary to pre-university curricula for mathematics, science, technical and physical education as Deputy Director of the Sciences Branch and took on the role as Director of Curriculum Planning and Development Division from 2011-2013. In 2006, she was the founding principal of NorthLight School, a school that offers an enhanced vocational education programme to students who are more suited for an application-based education. Mrs Chua was awarded the Public Administration Medal Bronze and Silver in 1999 and 2007 respectively in recognition of her service to education. In 2009, she also received the Outstanding Science Alumni award from the National University of Singapore.

Workshop 1
Title: 推動校本STEM教育發展 強化學生科創思維
Presenters: 愛秩序灣官立小學 崔家祥校長、何佩珊副校長、翁麗琴主任、陳潔瑩老師、黃珏玲老師、曾志華老師、鄭淑偉老師、李文豪老師
Synopsis: 分享本校如何從課程策劃、教師培訓、校外資源等方面，推動校本STEM教育發展。從不同教學層次及施行模式，分享本校現行STEM教育發展的概況及學生在科創思維發展方面的表現。

Workshop 2
Title: 無紙藝術21
Presenters: 天主教石鐘山紀念小學 陳惠芳老師、曾小星副校長
Synopsis:
• 「無紙藝術21」課程整合以往電腦美術實踐經驗，培育學生的感知能力，並提升他們認識美術語言的能力。
• 課程目的是推廣「藝術與科技合一，隨時隨地創作」的電腦藝術創作，提高學生對美術的興趣和創作能力。去年「無紙藝術21」課程更加入虛擬實境器材，以提升學生的學習動機。

Workshop 3
Title: 桌上遊戲學習
Presenter: 聖愛德華天主教小學 馮立榮校長
Synopsis: 本校已將「大富翁」、「生命之旅」等桌上遊戲融入課堂，讓孩子在遊戲中學習，除了讓孩子感受桌遊的樂趣，訓練學生解難能力，專注力及培養正面處事態度外，更可激發學生的學習興趣。令學生投入課堂，共同參與，互相學習，讓孩子「學於此，樂於此！」
Workshop 4

Title: Using Video to Professionally Develop Teachers’ Ability to Notice Classroom Interactions

Presenter: Dr. Kennedy Chan, Faculty of Education, The University of Hong Kong

Synopsis: The classroom environment is both complex and dynamic. Teachers need to develop ‘professional eyes’ to notice and interpret pedagogically salient events amidst the complexity of the classroom. The purpose of this hands-on workshop is to introduce the research base on teacher noticing and how authentic classroom video clips may be used to develop teachers’ noticing power. A classroom observation lens will be introduced in a video analysis activity. How innovative technologies such as point-of-view video camera may be used for teacher professional development (TPD) purpose will be introduced. Logistic and challenges of setting up video-based TPD will also be discussed. School administrators, teacher professional developers and practitioners who are interested in professionally developing themselves and/or setting up video-based TPD in their school will find this workshop useful.

Workshop 5

Title: Implementation of E-learning Tools to Enhance Teaching and Learning: Motivating Students to be Active Learners

Presenters: Ms Karen Ho, Mr Eddie Suen and Mr Daniel Chung, HKMA David Li Kwok Po College

Synopsis: The mode of teaching has a lot to do with students’ motivation to learn. With effective utilization of e-learning tools, lessons become more interactive and students will have higher motivation to learn. In this workshop, we will share with teachers our experience in implementing ‘flipped classrooms’ and in employing various e-learning tools (e.g. Plickers, Kahoot, iClass) to motivate students at the school to be active learners. We will also share with teachers some practical tips on how to set up the necessary tools with minimum efforts. In a nutshell, the workshop will shed light on how teachers can get themselves ready to embrace the use of e-learning tools in the classroom.

Workshop 7

Title: Multilevel Leadership Network for SDL Innovation to Advance STEM Development (SDLS-MLN)

Presenters: Dr. Lee Yeung, Ms Ko Pakon and Mr Mak Yan Kei, Faculty of Education, The University of Hong Kong

Synopsis: Self-directed learning (SDL) and STEM learning are the two key initiatives in education nowadays. How schools can create space for advancing STEM innovation with self-directed learning in classroom practices? This workshop offers examples of good practices and tactics for building school capacity for STEM education and shares some strategies that enable the development of students’ 21st century skills. In addition, through the hands-on activity also allows participants to experience different stages of self-directed learning.
Activities with Local Communities

Annual Partnership Forum 2017

Title: Implementing a New Model of School-University Partnerships – Reflections and Impacts
Date: June 13, 2017 (Tuesday)

Dr Tammy Kwan (Former Assistant Dean [School-University Partnerships], Faculty of Education, HKU) delivered her welcoming speech to honourable guests and participants.

Dr Tammy Kwan (Former Assistant Dean [School-University Partnerships], Faculty of Education, HKU) presented a token of thanks to Mr Chim Hon Ming (Principal of Chiu Sheung School, Hong Kong), for his support and service as Chairperson of School-University Partnerships Advisory Committee (2014-17).

Our PGDE student-teachers of Early Childhood Education major (2016-17) shared their valuable practicum experience with the forum participants.

Mentor-teachers of our PGDE student-teacher shared how team mentoring can benefit professional development of both mentor-teachers and student-teachers.

Mr Tang Kai Chak, Principal of King’s College & Chairperson of School-University Partnerships Advisory Committee (2017-2020) (right) and Dr Susan Bridges, Assistant Dean [Curriculum Innovation], Faculty of Education, HKU (left) presented a gift to Dr Tammy Kwan, Former Assistant Dean [School-University Partnerships], Faculty of Education, HKU who retired at the end of June 2017. The gift is a token of appreciation for Dr Kwan’s contributions to School-University Partnerships throughout the years.

Participants actively engaged in workshop discussions.

School’s coordinators and subject teacher advisors attended PGDE SE workshops to gain the most updated information for practicum arrangement of PGDE programme.

Teaching Practice Orientations

Teaching Practice Orientations aim to prepare student-teachers of our initial teacher education programmes for the upcoming Teaching Practice at schools.

Dr Loh Ka Yee (Programme Director of double degree undergraduate programmes) addressed the importance of professional conduct during Teaching Practice Orientation (undergraduate programmes) in late August 2017.

Mr Arthur Lee (PGDE Programme Director) welcomed all the PGDE students during the PGDE SE and PP Orientation in early September 2017.

Dr Arthur Lee (PGDE Programme Director) welcomed all the PGDE students during the PGDE SE and PP Orientation in early September 2017.

Teacher Mentoring Workshops 2017-18

To inspire and nurture the new generation of quality education professionals on effective teaching practices, mentor-teachers were gathered in this series of two workshops to develop a strong understanding of mentoring practices and to apply the skills to support our student-teachers as well as their colleagues in schools. These workshops were designed and conducted by Dr Cheri Chan, Professional Development Coordinator of our Faculty. Two identical mentoring workshops were organized, one in each semester, to allow more flexibility for teachers to attend the workshops at a time of their convenience.

Dr Arthur Lee (PGDE Programme Director) welcomed all the PGDE students during the PGDE SE and PP Orientation in early September 2017.

Participants actively engaged in workshop discussions.

Dr Cheri Chan acted as a facilitator in the workshop.

PGDE School Experience (SE) Workshops

The revised curriculum of our Postgraduate Diploma in Education (PGDE) was first implemented in the academic year of 2016-17. Since then, SE workshops have been organized for schools which offer placements for our PGDE student-teacher. The aim of these workshops is to share with the teachers and relevant school personnel the arrangement of SE, roles of respective parties in the school under the new curriculum. It is hoped that the teachers who participated in the workshop will get a clear understanding on how our ideas of integration of theory and practice in an authentic school environment can be realized with their support.
PGDE School Forums (September 2017)
In order to better prepare our student-teachers for their one-day per week School Experience (SE) in October, we invited school principals and experienced teachers to address and discuss different topics which helped equip student-teachers to become professional student-teachers and actualize the “concept of a teacher” as indicated in the PGDE programme. The purpose of the three Forums, held in September, is to set the scene for the student-teachers to embark on their SE beginning in October.

Chinese Language Related Talks
Our Office led by Mr Lo Man Fong Alain, School-University Partnerships Director has delivered Chinese language related talks especially for our Professional Partnerships Schools.

National Institute of Education, Singapore (NIE)
Incoming (November 29 – December 20, 2017)
Four student-teachers from NIE came to Hong Kong in November, 2017 for international practicum exchange. An induction session was held by the Faculty on November 29, 2017. These four exchange student-teachers were placed in Creative Secondary School and Aldrich Bay Government Primary School for their 4-week practicum.

National Taiwan Normal University, Taiwan (NTNU)
Incoming (March 12 – March 23, 2018)
Four student-teachers from NTNU came to Hong Kong in March, 2018 for international practicum exchange. An induction session was held by the Faculty on March 12, 2018. These four exchange student-teachers were placed in Lee Kau Van Memorial School and HKMA David Li Kwok Po College for their 2-week practicum.

Partnerships Across Borders
International Practicum Exchange
The international teaching practicum exchange programme is an initiative to foster knowledge exchange between teacher training providers and schools in Hong Kong as well as overseas. Student-teachers are exposed to both broad and in-depth experiences on teaching and working with educational stakeholders internationally, and thereby contribute to a deeper understanding and better appreciation of learning, teaching and education.
